
TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
Foreword	1
Chapter One:
The Phonology and Orthography of the Attested Celtic Languages.	3
1. Introduction	3
2. Gaulish	4
3. Celtiberian	8
4. Old and Middle Welsh	17
5. Ogam Irish	22
6. Old Irish	26
Chapter Two:
From Proto-Indo-European to Proto-Celtic.	37
1. Stops	37
2. Fricatives	45
3. Sonants	48
4. Laryngeals	51
5. Vowels	54
Chapter Three:
The Voiceless Labiovelar, Syllabic Nasals, Lenition and the Celtic Family Tree.	67
1. The Voiceless Labiovelar	67
2. Syllabic Nasals	70
3. The Gallo-British Hypothesis	79
4. Lenition	81
5. Evidence for Insular Celtic	98
Chapter Four:
Primitive Irish.	105
1. Early Developments	105
2. Umlaut and Other Changes in Vocalism	109
3. Palatalisation	115
4. Loss of Final Consonants and Vowels	120
5. Compensatory Lengthening and Syncope	122

Chapter Five:
From Early Old Irish to Middle Irish.	127
1. Consonant Groups Arising by Syncope	127
2. Semivowels and Diphthongs	130
3. Voicing of Consonants	132
4. Breaking, Proclisis and Unstressed Vowels	134
5. Changes in the Old Irish Phonemic System	137
6. Middle Irish Developments	140
Chapter Six:
The Great British Vowel Shift.	145
1. The Basic Issue	145
2. Breakdown of the Insular Celtic System	147
3. Further Erosion of Phonemic Length	154
4. Emergence of the New British System	158
Bibliography	167
Index Verborum Celticorum	177